Cobbler Bootees

These cobbler bootees might had had Robin Hood's glen, but they can step out on main street when you wear sports clothes. They have an affinity for sports sweaters and skirts.

Minute Make-Ups
By GABRIELLE

Host a little cosmetic oil. Apply it to the throat with gentle upward strokes. Leave it on until ready to make up. Hot off the surplus oil. Apply powder with an upswipe of your puff. Add pearls and your throat will look as young as you ARE!

Local Happenings

A MEETING
P. T. A. will meet Tuesday Feb. 25, at 8 o'clock in the lounge. This is the 50th year of the organization and appropriate program will be rendered.

Exhibition for photographs Virginia architecture will be the high school library this and next during school hours.

Mr. Ayers has a birthday on Feb. 25 and friends are invited to honor him on that day. He is paralyzed for about three years.

Mary Franklin, of Cambria, is visiting her brother, Jesse, at Evergreen.

W. F. Barbee, of Winston-Salem, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan.

Jennie Johnson has returned to Lynchburg, where she was due to the illness of her mother, Mrs. J. H. Johnson, who is at the Virginia Baptist Hospital.

Mr. John Lawson Woolf spent the weekend at Forest Hill.

T. P. Tulp is visiting in Walpole, N.C.

It may lead to discovery of new planets and stars.

The optical range of this telescope, according to theory, should be about one billion light years. At 188,000 miles a second, in a year.

This new range should enable astronomers to make a more accurate estimation of what goes on in the universe of this earth.

The project, financed by Rockefeller foundation, includes work here and at Mt. Palomar 125 miles to the south.

At Pasadena, an optical shop, where the 200-inch disc and auxiliary mirrors are being ground, was constructed. Other buildings at Pasadena are the astrophysics instrument shop, where instruments, precision machine parts and optical mechanisms were manufactured, and the astrophysical laboratory, which houses offices, research facilities and a solar tower.

Many Engaged on Work.
The observatory site at Palomar has an altitude of 8,500 feet. In addition to three telescope buildings at the site other buildings providing for the water, power, machine shop facilities, garages, offices and storage have been constructed.

The new community on Mt. Palomar also includes resident cottages, lodging accommodations, dining hall, water pumping plant and a school house. These have been used by the approximately 80 persons engaged in constructing the buildings.

When the big mirror is completed here, it will be transported to Palomar for a test mounting period, which may be one week or two or three months, depending on results of tests and difficulties encountered.

A small, 12-inch mirror is being prepared for test with the observatory equipment in case there is more delay in completion of the big mirror.

Observation at Palomar is expected to be much clearer than is now possible at Mt. Wilson, where observation difficulties have increased because of the growth of Mt. Los Angeles area with its industrial smoke and general city haze.

WE ARE RECEIVING DAILY NEW SPRING COAT SUITS, THREE QUARTER COATS, DRESSES AND BLOUSES.

Prize Bull Gets Penicillin for Infection

When Inka, $20,000 prize bull dropped from 2,000 pounds to 1,600 in 10 days, veterinarians thought a piece of metal in his stomach was the cause. Further investigation disclosed that the famous dairy was suffering from an infection, probably in his liver. Dr. M. E. Boyer is shown injecting penicillin into Inka's shoulder, a method that will give quicker results than mixing the drug with his food. The bull lives on a farm near Forest Hill. His daughters are noted for the extraordinarily high butterfat content of their milk.
